

MICHAEL STUPARYK/TORONTO STAR

BUSY COUPLE: Etobicoke residents Nora Wistow, 79, and husband Art, also 79, admire some of his watercolors. Nora is a high school supply teacher and Art attends classes at the University of Toronto.

Career, courses and cultural life keep couple, both aged 79, active

At 79, Nora Wistow is still supply teaching in Etobicoke secondary schools. And she has no thoughts of retiring.

"I've been an occasional teacher for 26 years and I did promise my family I'd retire when I'm 80, which will be on Feb. 7. But I don't want to retire. I enjoy the age group from 13 to 17 because they're very much alive and keep me entertained."

Real teacher

Wistow received the teacher of the year award at the Branch 12 Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation annual meeting last May. She says that now when students ask her if she's a real teacher she can reply "yes" because of the award.

"I've been asked many times by the students if I'm a real teacher. I guess it is because I'm old and not at the same school every day. As a supply teacher, I go to different schools when a teacher is sick or at a conference."

Wistow graduated from London's Western University in business administration and secretarial science and from Margaret Eaton Physical School, which later became part of the University of Toronto. "In my day it was a girls' private school."

She and husband, Art, 79, enjoy attending the ballet, Roy Thomson Hall concerts, productions at the Royal Alexandra Theatre and Stratford.

"We can afford these things because prices are cheaper for seniors."

Brush painting

Her husband, too, leads an interesting life. He completed his bachelor of arts at the University of Toronto after retiring and graduated in 1986. He now attends classes on Mondays and Wednesdays on Celtic culture.

Art also paints watercolors and his art graces the walls of their home in Etobicoke. He also does Chinese brush painting for which he earned an award. And he sculpts and does woodcarving.

The Wistows celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Aug. 17 and have two sons, Brian, of Modesto, Calif., and David, and a daughter, Carroll Willer, of London, Ont., and one granddaughter.

"We've always enjoyed each other's way of life," he says. She adds: "We try to be happy and make others happy."
